From Josh Comstock, on behalf of the C&J Energy Services Executive Management team and the Integration Management Office and Steering Committee for the Proposed Combination with Nabors Completion and Production Services business

All,

As previously announced in August, in our continued pursuit of achieving successful, fast-paced growth for C&J, it is essential to build an organization that will provide the support needed to scale operations into the future. Central to our integration planning efforts for the proposed combination with Nabors Completion and Production Services business is the strategic enhancement of our current structure in order to ensure we are able to take full advantage of the significant synergies and opportunities that will be provided by the greater scale, capabilities and resources of our combined company. Although we are still developing the overall organizational structure, we are now pleased to announce the additional members of senior management for the new C&J combined company, including the direct reports of the Executive Management team, which will be effective upon closing of the transaction subject to Board approval.

At this time, we also want to take a moment to highlight the addition of Nabors industry-leading production services, which will bring meaningful diversification to our operations as a new, independent service line C&J Production Services. Nabors production services are currently offered throughout the U.S. as part of Nabors Completion and Production Services as well as in Canada through Nabors Production Services (Canada). We look forward to introducing C&J Production Services and our expanded service offering to our customers upon closing of the transaction and we are excited about the future growth potential for C&J Production Services in the U.S. and Canada.
