Commission File No. 001-32638

To all TAL employees:

A few minutes ago, TAL International announced that we have entered into an agreement to merge with Triton Container. The combination of TAL and Triton will create the world's largest and most efficient container leasing company. The combined company will also benefit from the pooled capabilities of two businesses already recognized for high quality people, operational excellence, close customer relationships and thoughtful decision-making. The new company will truly be an exceptional organization.

The enhanced capabilities, larger scale and improved cost competitiveness of the new company will provide meaningful advantages in good markets and bad, but these advantages will be particularly valuable in the current challenging environment. Our value proposition to customers will be strengthened. We will offer customers a significantly expanded container supply capacity and an enhanced customer service platform. We will provide our lenders with a larger, stronger borrower and our equity investors will benefit from improved earnings and strategic leadership. The new company will provide employees opportunities to take on new, increased responsibilities.

The combination of TAL International and Triton is structured as a merger of equals. The new company's Board of Directors, senior management team and overall staff will include a mix of people from both organizations. I will serve as the combined company's Chief Executive Officer, Triton's Simon Vernon will be President and John Burns will be Chief Financial Officer. The name of the new company will be Triton International.

Organizational planning is underway and we believe we have developed an outline for the integration of TAL and Triton that will build upon the core strengths that each company brings to the merger. We will provide more details on the integration plan for the combined company over the coming weeks.

While I think this merger represents an exciting new chapter for TAL, it also necessarily creates a period of uncertainty for employees. We will work hard to quickly provide details for employees about how the integration of the two companies will impact your positions. We are also implementing enhanced employee protection plans to help mitigate some of this uncertainty. We will send details about these enhanced protection plans in a separate E-mail.

Both TAL and Triton have well-earned reputations for operational excellence and reliability with our customers, suppliers and capital providers. From the beginning of our discussions it was clear that bringing together our two companies was the ideal combination. This view recognizes all you have done to make TAL a great company, an outstanding competitor and an excellent place to work. We have a similar view of Triton.

I joined TAL over sixteen years ago as the company was still struggling with the aftermath of the Asia crisis. Many of you have been with the company much longer. We have gone through multiple corporate changes and faced a huge variety of market conditions. I look back at the things we have accomplished together with a tremendous amount of pride and more than a little amazement. I think I am most proud about the way we have always gone about our work. Over the last ten years that we have been a stand-alone public company, we have more than tripled the size of our assets and have generated almost $1.4 billion in cash income for our investors. We have done this by focusing on delivering value to customers, driving operational excellence and emphasizing clear, honest and open communication internally and with our external stakeholders. I am confident that we will continue this commitment to great results achieved the right way in the next phase of our company.

We expect the merger with Triton to close in the first half of 2016 after we have gone through regulatory reviews and received shareholder approvals for the transaction. We will use the interim period to lay the groundwork for bringing the companies together. However, it is especially critical that we also remain focused on our day-to-day business. We can't let the preparation for our next phase interrupt our focus on our customers, operations and performance.

We will provide more information about the transaction and integration plan shortly with a goal of quickly giving each of you a clear understanding about what is happening and what it will mean for you. Also, your manager and TAL's senior management team are also available for individual calls or drop-by visits, as always.

I am extremely excited by the opportunity to build on all that we have accomplished at TAL to create a truly unique, best-in-class leasing company together with Triton. I am looking forward to working closely with all of you to make this happen together.

Sincerely,

Brian
