Notes: Net business profits represents the amount before deducting credit costs for trust accounts and provision for general allowance for loan losses.

[Factors affecting consolidated earnings forecast]

Ø The decrease in total credit related costs, which are expected to be much lower than previously estimated, and the gains on loans written-off primarily contributed to the increase in the forecast of consolidated ordinary profit and consolidated net income. The decrease in total credit related costs was mainly attributable to upgrades in borrowers' credit ratings resulting from improvements in their business performance.

These upward revisions were partially offset by the expected decline in net business profits of our subsidiary banks and the downward revisions in the net income projections of our group companies in the consumer finance businesses.

Edgar Filing: MITSUBISHI UFJ FINANCIAL GROUP INC - Form 6-K

Ø The increase in consolidated net income is expected to be greater than that of ordinary profit, mainly due to the increase in reversal of allowance for loan losses and gains on loans written-off, which were accounted for as extraordinary gains.

[Factors affecting non-consolidated earnings forecast (sum of our subsidiary two banks)]

Ø The net business profit is expected to decrease from previously announced forecasts to ¥548 billion. This was caused by, among other things, a narrowing of the loan spread in lending to domestic corporate customers and a decrease in profits from our treasury operations due to changes in interest rate trends.

The total credit related cost of our two subsidiary banks is expected to be a gain of ¥150 billion.

Ø The increase in non-consolidated net income is expected to be greater than that of ordinary profit, mainly due to the increase in reversal of allowance for loan losses and gains on loans written-off, which were accounted for as extraordinary gains.
