Item 8.01 Other Events.

On March 20, 2011, the Company and Deutsche Telekom announced their entry into a stock purchase agreement under which the Company agreed to acquire from Deutsche Telekom all of the issued and outstanding shares of its subsidiary T-Mobile USA, Inc. in exchange for approximately $39 billion, consisting of $25 billion in cash and approximately $14 billion of the Company's common stock, subject to certain adjustments. The amount of stock to be issued to Deutsche Telekom in connection with the Transaction will depend on the volume-weighted average of the trading price of the Company's common stock during the 30 trading days ending on the third business day prior to the closing of the Transaction (the Averaging Period), except that the volume-weighted average of the trading prices will not be less than $26.0165 or more than $30.2354. The price to be paid in stock is subject to reduction for closing indebtedness, certain divestiture and regulatory costs and any pre-closing distributions in excess of pre-closing cash flow. In addition, the Company has the right to increase the cash portion of the purchase price by up to $4.2 billion and decrease the number of shares of Common Stock to be issued based on the volume-weighted average price in the Averaging Period. The stock purchase agreement contains certain termination rights for each of the Company and Deutsche Telekom and, in the event that the Stock Purchase Agreement is terminated because of the failure to obtain regulatory approval, the Company may become obligated to pay Deutsche Telekom $3 billion in cash, enter into a roaming agreement with Deutsche Telekom on terms favorable to both parties and transfer to Deutsche Telekom certain wireless AWS spectrum that the Company does not need for its initial LTE roll-out.

The cash portion of the purchase price will be financed with new debt and cash on the Company's balance sheet. The Company has obtained an 18-month commitment for a $20 billion one-year unsecured bridge term facility underwritten by J.P. Morgan. The Company will be assuming no debt from T-Mobile or Deutsche Telekom.

The Company and Deutsche Telekom have also entered into a stockholder's agreement, which will become effective upon the closing of the Transaction. Pursuant to the stockholder's agreement, Deutsche Telekom will have the right to nominate one director to the Company's Board of Directors until such time as Deutsche Telekom's ownership has been reduced below an agreed threshold, and so long as such nominee satisfies certain requirements, the Company is obligated to use its reasonable best efforts to include such nominee in the slate of Board-approved candidates for election to the Company's Board of Directors.

The closing of the Transaction is subject to certain conditions, including approval by the Federal Communications Commission and the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Act of 1976, as amended. The Transaction is not subject to the approval of the stockholders of either the Company or Deutsche Telekom. The closing of the Transaction is expected to occur in approximately 12 months.

A discussion of factors that may affect future results is contained in the Company's filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. In addition to these factors, there are risks and uncertainties associated with T-Mobile's business, the pendency of the Transaction and the ability to realize the benefits of the integration of the T-Mobile business. The Company disclaims any obligation to update or revise statements contained in this filing based on new information or otherwise.
