Subject Company: Constellation Energy Group, Inc.

(Commission File No. 1-12869)

On April 28, 2011, Mark P. Huston, Constellation Energy's managing director of Retail Energy sent the following email to Retail Energy employees relating to the proposed merger with Exelon Corporation.

Retail Energy Colleague,

This morning we announced the exciting news that Constellation Energy will merge with Exelon, creating the nation's leading competitive energy provider and largest competitive power generator. As Mayo indicated in his email, this is an exciting moment in the history of Constellation and a great opportunity for our customers, employees, shareholders, and communities.

A major factor in Exelon's decision to pursue a merger with Constellation Energy was our well developed, national retail & wholesale business and the strong trusted relationships we have with our customers. I am proud of the work and dedication by each of you to build our widely recognized brand that will be a foundation for growth for the combined company well into the future.

Thanks to the leadership, innovation and excellence of the Constellation retail team, the future company will continue to go to market with retail offerings under the Constellation Energy brand and through our local offices located throughout the country.

Throughout today, there will be town hall meetings, webcasts and conference calls to convey the details of the merger, the vision for the future and address your questions and concerns. The merger is expected to close in the first quarter of 2012. Until that time, Constellation and Exelon are still two distinct companies with competitive business units.

Right now, we all need to remain focused on supporting Constellation's customers and achieving our business plan. We are on a mission to be the best in class across the industry and consistently WOW our customers and teammates with exceptional service.

If you have any questions related to the merger, please address your supervisor or send them to Lev Goldberg.

Thank you for your continued commitment and support in an ever changing world!

Mark

Cautionary Statements Regarding Forward-Looking Information

Except for the historical information contained herein, certain of the matters discussed in this communication constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, both as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Words such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, plan, believe, target, and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future plans, actions, or events identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding benefits of the proposed merger, integration plans and expected synergies, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, anticipated future financial and operating performance and results, including estimates for growth. These statements are based on the current expectations of management of Exelon Corporation (Exelon) and Constellation Energy Group, Inc. (Constellation), as applicable. There are a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements included in this communication. For example, (1) the companies may be unable to obtain shareholder approvals required for the merger; (2) the companies may be unable to obtain regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required regulatory approvals may delay the merger or result in the imposition of conditions that could have a material adverse effect on the combined company or cause the companies to abandon the merger; (3) conditions to the closing of the merger may not be satisfied; (4) an unsolicited offer of another company to acquire assets or capital stock of Exelon or Constellation could interfere with the merger; (5) problems may arise in successfully integrating the businesses of the companies, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected; (6) the combined company may be unable to achieve cost-cutting synergies or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies; (7) the merger may involve unexpected costs, unexpected liabilities or unexpected delays, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the companies' expectations; (8) the credit ratings of the combined company or its subsidiaries may be different from what the companies expect; (9) the businesses of the companies may suffer as a result of uncertainty surrounding the merger; (10) the companies may not realize the values expected to be obtained for properties expected or required to be divested; (11) the industry may be subject to future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect the companies; and (12) the companies may be adversely affected by other economic, business, and/or competitive factors. Other unknown or unpredictable factors could also have material adverse effects on future results, performance or achievements of the combined company. Discussions of some of these other important factors and assumptions are contained in Exelon's and Constellation's respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov, including: (1) Exelon's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in (a) ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) ITEM 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) ITEM 8. Financial Statements and Supplementary Data: Note 18; (2) Exelon's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2011 in (a) Part II, Other Information, ITEM 1A. Risk Factors, (b) Part I, Financial Information, ITEM 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations and (c) Part I, Financial Information, ITEM 1. Financial Statements: Note 12; and (3) Constellation's 2010 Annual Report on Form 10-K in
