Tokyo, January 31, 2019 Nomura Holdings, Inc. today announced its consolidated financial results for the third quarter of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2019.

Net revenue for the third quarter was 260.6 billion yen (US$2.4 billion)<sup>1</sup>, down 8 percent quarter on quarter and 36 percent year on year. Loss before income taxes was 76.2 billion yen (US$694 million). Net loss attributable to Nomura Holdings shareholders was 95.3 billion yen (US$869 million). Diluted net loss attributable to Nomura Holdings shareholders per share was 28.52 yen.

For the nine months to December, Nomura reported net revenue of 815.5 billion yen (US$7.4 billion), down 27 percent from the same period last year. Loss before income taxes was 62.1 billion yen (US$566 million), and net loss attributable to Nomura Holdings shareholders was 101.3 billion yen (US$923 million). Diluted net loss attributable to Nomura Holdings shareholders per share was 30.03 yen.

We had a particularly challenging third quarter. Our Fixed Income performance weakened on the back of market uncertainty and widening credit spreads. In addition, we booked a goodwill impairment charge on past acquisitions and an unrealized loss on securities due to lower stock prices. As a result, we reported a net loss for the quarter, said Nomura President and Group CEO Koji Nagai.

Despite the challenges, Retail reported net inflows of cash and securities for the second straight quarter, underpinned by our ongoing efforts to boost client assets and a large IPO. Inflows into our Asset Management business continued, although market factors drove down assets under management. In Wholesale, Equities delivered strong results driven by Derivatives, and Investment Banking played a leading role in Japan's largest-ever IPO.

While disappointing, our performance this quarter does not in any way detract from our commitment to building a robust operating platform capable of delivering consistent growth under any environment. We will accelerate current initiatives to transform our business model, while focusing on prudent risk management and disciplined cost control.

Retail reported net revenue of 86.8 billion yen, up 1 percent quarter on quarter and down 22 percent year on year. Income before income taxes increased 15 percent quarter on quarter but declined 55 percent year on year to 14.0 billion yen.

The third quarter was buoyed by contribution from a large IPO, although transactions for investment trusts and foreign stocks slowed as the bear market weighed on investor sentiment.

Consistent efforts to boost client assets drove continued net inflows into discretionary investments. As a result, net inflows of cash and securities climbed to approximately 1.8 trillion yen.

Asset Management

	Q3	QoQ	YoY

A goodwill impairment charge of 81 billion yen had a substantial negative impact on Wholesale results.

Tokyo, January 31, 2019 Nomura Holdings, Inc. today announced its operating results for the third quarter of the fiscal year ending March 31, 2019. The firm booked a goodwill impairment charge in the quarter as outlined below.

The goodwill impairment charge totaled 81.4 billion yen, and was booked primarily in relation to Instinet and Lehman Brothers. Of this amount, 81 billion yen was recognized as Other expenses in Wholesale.

Nomura has been working to transform its traditional business model and expects to further step up its efforts going forward.

In light of this and recent Wholesale performance, the firm conducted a more conservative assessment of the division's profitability. Based on the assessment, the firm decided to book the impairment charge in the third quarter.

As of December 31, 2018, there is no remaining goodwill related to these transactions attributable to Wholesale. There is 500 million yen of goodwill remaining firmwide.

The charge has been reflected in today's results. Please refer to Financial Summary for the Nine Months Ended December 31, 2018 for details.
