Internet Gold's Subsidiary MSN Israel Launches New Improved MSN Search

Tuesday February 1, 1:57 am ET

PETACH TIKVA, Israel, February 1 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- As part of Microsoft's (NASDAQ: MSFT - News) worldwide launch of its New MSN Search, Internet Gold's (NASDAQ: IGLD - News) subsidiary, MSN-Israel (owned 50.1% by Internet Gold and 49.9% by Microsoft Corp.), today launched a new Hebrew-language MSN Search service designed for the Israeli market and Hebrew speakers throughout the world

"The launch of this exciting new service is another step in our efforts to increase our share of Israel's growing search and index markets," said Mr. Eli Holtzman, Internet Gold's CEO. "As in the rest of the world, 'search' in Israel has proven its ability to generate significant revenues and is just beginning to grow. We are confident that the addition of MSN's powerful new search technology to our successful MSN-Israel is a winning combination that will immediately begin generating significant placement and index fees.

"To round out our 'search and index' activities, we will soon be launching an MSN-Israel-branded index in cooperation with our partner Netex. We believe that our ability to offer customers a variety of options for proven-effective targeted advertising on complementary search and index sites will serve as a powerful revenue generator, enabling us to reach our target of 40% market share in Israel's rapidly growing search-related market.
