The Company has certain tax incentives relative to our manganese operations in Carajás, bauxite in Oriximiná, potash operations in Rosario do Catete, alumina and aluminum operations in Barcarena and kaolin operations in Ipixuna and Mazagão. The incentives relative to manganese comprise partial exemption up to 2013. The incentive relating to alumina and potash comprise full income tax exemption on defined production levels, which expire in 2009 and 2013, respectively, while the partial exemption incentives relative to aluminum and kaolin expire in 2013, and bauxite in 2008. An amount equal to the tax saving must be appropriated to a reserve account within stockholders' equity and may not be distributed.

The Company has also taxes incentives related to Goro Project in New Caledonia. These incentives include an income tax holiday during the construction phase of the project and throughout a 15-year period commencing in the first year in which commercial production, as defined by the applicable legislation, is achieved followed by a five-year, 50% income tax holiday.

In addition, Goro qualifies for certain exemptions from indirect taxes such as import duties during the construction phase and throughout the commercial life of the project. Certain of these tax benefits, including the income tax holiday, are subject to an earlier phase out should the project achieve a specified cumulative rate of return. The company is subject to a branch profit tax commencing in the first year in which commercial production is achieved, as defined by the applicable legislation. To date, there is not any net income for New Caledonia tax purposes. The benefits of this legislation are expected to apply with respect to any taxes otherwise payable once the Goro project is in operation.

7.22- Pension Plan

Since 1973 CVRD has sponsored a complementary pension plan that presents a defined benefit characteristics (the Old Plan) covering substantially all employees, with valuation of benefits based on years of service, age, contribution salary and social security benefits completion. This plan is administered by Fundação Vale do Rio Doce de Seguridade Social VALIA and was funded by monthly contributions made by CVRD and its employees, calculated based on periodic actuarial appraisals.

In May 2000, the Company implemented a new complementary pension plan, with a variable contribution characteristic regarding the programmed retirement income and the risk benefits (death pension, disability retirement and health care help). When the launch of the New Plan (Plano Misto de Benefícios Vale Mais), it was offered to our active employees the opportunity of transferring to it. Over 98% of our active employees opted to the transference.

The Old Plan continues in existence, covering almost exclusively retired participants and their beneficiaries. Additionally the Company provides a specific group of ex-employees, covered by Resolutions 05/87 and 07/89, with supplementary benefit payments through the Abono Complementação plus a post-retirement medical, odontological and pharmaceutical benefit for that same group, in an equal model of those practiced to actual employees.

Pursuant to the acquisition of Inco CVRD assumed benefits through defined benefit pensions that cover essentially all its employees and post-retirement benefits other than pensions that provide certain health care and life insurance benefits for retired employees as well.

The following information details the status of the defined benefit elements of the Company plans in accordance with Deliberation CVM 371/00.

7.28- Financial Instruments Derivatives

The main market risks CVRD faces are interest rate risk, exchange rate risk and commodity price risk. Some of these risks are managed through the use of derivative instruments. The Company risk management activities follow the risk management policy, which requires diversification of transactions and counter-parties. CVRD monitors and evaluates the overall position regularly in order to evaluate financial results and impact on cash flow. CVRD also periodically reviews the credit limits and creditworthiness of hedging counter-parties.

Interest Rate and Exchange Rate Risk

The Company is exposed to interest rate risk on outstanding borrowings and in future debt issuances. The floating rate debt of CVRD consists principally of U.S. dollar borrowings related to trade finance and loans from commercial banks and Real borrowings indexed to CDI (Interbank Certificate of Deposit), related to the debentures issued in 2006 in the local market.

To mitigate the effects of interest rate volatility on the foreign debt CVRD sometimes makes use of natural hedges allowed by the positive correlation between floating interest rates and metals prices. When natural hedges are not effective, CVRD tries replicate the hedging effect by using derivatives.

The floating rate debt denominated in reais of CVRD is mainly subject to changes in CDI, related to the debentures issued in 2006, and associated with the takeout strategy of Inco acquisition.

To mitigate the foreign exchange exposure component in cash flows, associated with the issuance of debt in Brazilian reais, the Company has entered into swap agreements to convert cash flows in Brazilian reais indexed to CDI into U.S. dollar cash flows indexed to a fixed rate in dollars.

The Company is exposed to exchange rate risk associated with foreign currency denominated debt. On the other hand, a substantial proportion of revenues is denominated in, or automatically indexed to, the U.S. dollar. This provides a natural hedge against any devaluation of the Brazilian real against the U.S. dollar. When devaluation occurs, the immediate negative impact on foreign currency denominated debt is offset over time by the positive effect of devaluation on future cash flows. In light of this framework, derivative instruments are generally not used to manage the currency exposure on your long-term dollar-denominated debt. However, CVRD may occasionally use derivatives to minimize the effects of the volatility of the exchange rates between Brazilian reais and U.S. dollars in the cash flow. The Company uses forward currency contracts to eliminate the risk of exchange rate movements on a portion of future construction cost of capital assets at Ontario operations and the planned production facilities for the Goro project. These transactions are performed under CVRD Inco. The outstanding transactions are mainly executed to protect the risks arising from the volatility of Euro, AUD, CNY and GBP.

Commodities Price Risk

Used by CVRD derivative instruments to manage exposure to the fluctuation of commodity prices.

Nickel Not used derivatives instruments to hedge the exposure to fluctuating nickel prices. The Company does not enter into LME forward purchase contracts which are substantially offset by fixed price customer contracts in order to maintain the exposure to nickel price risk.

Copper There was outstanding put option contracts, giving the right, but not the obligation, to sell copper, and sold call option contracts, giving the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to purchase copper, during the period extending to 2008.

Gold There is a small position in gold derivative instruments, structured to manage the exposure associated with the production of gold as a by-product of copper concentrate.

Aluminum There was outstanding option contracts and forwards to protect the exposure to aluminum prices in the aluminum and alumina operations.

Platinum Derivatives are used to guarantee certain minimum price in respect of a portion of production of that metal.

Fuel Oil and Natural Gas Fuel oil and natural gas swap contracts are used to reduce the effect of energy price volatility on the operational costs.

Most of our commodity derivative transactions have been settled in cash, without physical delivery of product.

The nickel, platinum, fuel oil and natural gas derivative trades are performed under CVRD Inco. Copper derivative trades are performed to protect CVRD and CVRD Inco production and provide minimum cash flow requirements in accordance with our risk management policy.

7.31- Effects on the Statements if Price-Level Restatement were Applied (unaudited)

The main difference between the financial statements prepared according to Statutory Accounting Practices and those according to the price-level restatement method is due to the recognition, in the latter, of the net monetary restatement of permanent assets and stockholders' equity.

The Balance Sheet and the Statement of Income by monetary restatement, at December 31, 2006 price levels were prepared shortly indexed by the IGP-M of FGV.:

Table of ContentsB Additional Information*12 Cash generation (Unaudited)

The operating cash generation measured by EBITDA (earnings before financial results, results of equity investments, interest, income tax and depreciation, amortization and depletion, more dividends received) was R$ 22,759 on 2006, against R$16,701 on 2005, an increase of 36 %.

EBITDA is not a BR GAAP measure and does not represent cash flow for the periods presented and should not be considered as an alternative to net income (loss), as an indicator of our operating performance or as an alternative to cash flow as a source of liquidity.

Our definition of EBITDA may not be comparable with EBITDA as defined by other companies.

Although EBITDA, as defined above, it does not provide a US GAAP measure of operating cash flows, our management uses it to measure our operating performance and financial analysts in evaluating our business commonly use it.
