On August 22, 2018, Cigna Corporation made the following messages available through digital media. Did you know? Healthcare spending is projected to grow at twice the rate of other consumer products. Our goal is to bring these costs down, so they track with other consumer goods. Did you know? Consumers don't always know the choices they have in how they access medications. We're working to enable more choice, through an open delivery system. Did you know? When employers use the full range of pharmacy management tools, they can save up to 30%, compared to those that use a limited range of tools. Did you know? Integrated, team-based models that create tighter links in patient care chains lower the total cost of care and improve outcomes.

Did you know? Today, healthcare spending is projected to grow at almost twice the rate of other consumer products such as gasoline, food, etc. Our strategic goal is to flatten the cost curve for health care, so it tracks with that of other consumer goods, resulting in $50+ billion of cost saving to employers and consumers in 2021. Did you know? Consumers aren't always aware they could have a choice in how they get their medications. They must have expanded choice so they can fill their prescriptions in a way that fits their needs and lifestyle—through an open delivery system. We are working to enable more choice in health care. Did you know? When employers elect to use the full range of pharmacy management tools (think: cost management, drug utilization and optimization tools), they can save up to 30% on drug benefit costs, compared to those who opt for a limited range of tools. Those costs often get passed on to consumers. We working to make benefit plans more flexible and affordable. Did you know? Integrated, team-based care models that create tighter links between a consumer's doctors, dentists, pharmacists, health coaches and other caregivers not only lower the total cost of care but improve outcomes.
