Caution Concerning Forward-Looking Statements

This Current Report on Form 8-K contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, as amended. Investors are cautioned that forward-looking statements are inherently uncertain and involve risks and uncertainties, which may cause actual results to differ materially from those discussed herein. Such statements include statements regarding the timing and completion of the restatement of financial statements, the extent and effect of such restatement on the reported financial condition of the Company and timing for filing of the Company's annual report on Form 10-K. Please refer to the risks and uncertainties detailed from time to time by the Company in its periodic filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. You are strongly urged to review all such filings for a more detailed discussion of such risks and uncertainties. The Company undertakes no duty to update any forward-looking statements, except as required by law.

Item 4.02 Non-Reliance on Previously Issued Financial Statements or a Related Audit Report of Completed Interim Review

On February 11, 2013, based on the recommendation of management, in consultation with the Company's independent registered public accounting firm and the Company's audit committee, the Company has determined that certain costs incurred in constructing its Nichols Ranch In-Situ Recovery ("ISR") Uranium Project should have been accounted for as exploration expenses, rather than capitalized as construction in progress.

The Company is an exploration stage uranium mining company currently constructing its first mine, its Nichols Ranch ISR Uranium Project, in the Powder River Basin of Wyoming. After receiving the State permit needed to begin construction and operation of the mine, the Company began to capitalize various costs associated with mine construction. However, to comply with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's Industry Guide 7, as an exploration stage company, certain costs should have continued to be expensed as exploration costs, rather than capitalized. All previous exploration activities had been so expensed by the Company.

The restatement of our financial statements is to adjust for an accounting reclassification of project costs during the periods restated and will not change the Company's reported cash in treasury, its cash flow, or its business plan.

To make the adjustment, the Company will restate its audited annual financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, as contained in its annual report on Form 10-K and its unaudited financial statements for the quarters ended March 31, 2012, June 30, 2012 and September 30, 2012, as contained in its quarterly reports on Form 10-Q for those periods. These costs will be expensed in the audited annual financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2012, which we anticipate will be filed in March of 2013 in our annual report on Form 10-K.

Accordingly, investors should no longer rely on our financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, and for the quarters ended March 31, 2012, June 30, 2012 and September 30, 2012.
