In addition to our highly qualified incumbent directors, we have nominated three outstanding new independent candidates with strong executive experience, no prior relationships with the Company, and no conflicts with Forest. These new 3 independent nominees Christopher Coughlin, Gerald Lieberman and Brent Saunders are highly accomplished professionals who bring to the Board their operational skills, financial acumen, investor perspective, compliance expertise, and corporate governance experience that will be instrumental to our future growth and success. We anticipate that these new independent directors would make significant contributions to our board and join our continuing directors on the key Board committees, and with their election, Forest will have added six new directors in the past five years. Leading Proxy Advisory Firms Recommend that Shareholders Support Forest's Nominees We are gratified that three independent proxy advisory firms have announced their strong support for Forest's nominees. We believe the following recommendations reflect our strong track record of developing new products, the high caliber of our director candidates and the balance of valuable experience and new perspectives we have assembled on our slate: Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) said that Icahn "has not demonstrated a compelling case that change at the Board level is needed"[1] and recommended FOR ALL 10 of Forest's nominees.

Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) said that Icahn "has not demonstrated a compelling case that change at the Board level is needed"[1] and recommended FOR ALL 10 of Forest's nominees. Egan-Jones stated it was "not convinced that the election of the dissidents' slate of nominees... would work to the benefit of shareholders"[2] and recommended FOR ALL 10 of Forest's nominees. Glass Lewis rejected all but one of Icahn's nominees, thereby effectively supporting 9 OUT OF 10 of Forest's nominees. Icahn's Nominees Have Failed In Our View to Prove They Deserve Your Support Reject Their Bid For Your Vote Do Not Sign the Gold Proxy Cards We believe Icahn has offered no good reasons to elect his hand-picked nominees, who lack operational experience, have in our view significant conflicts of interest and have shown themselves as not understanding Forest's business. Richard Mulligan and Eric Ende have no previous corporate operating or management experience and have no expertise in compliance or governance. During Richard Mulligan's six years of combined service as a director of ImClone, Biogen Idee and Enzon, none of these companies had a new product approved in the U.S. During Alex Denner's involvement with ImClone, Biogen Idee, Amylin and Enzon, none of these companies had a new product approved in the U.S. Denner also was tasked with finding a new CEO for Enzon and has failed for a year and a half to find a permanent replacement. We believe Alex Denner and Richard Mulligan are seriously conflicted due to their service as directors on the Boards of Biogen Idee and Amylin, two companies that compete with Forest for new product licensing and acquisition opportunities in important and overlapping therapeutic areas. Lucian Bebchuk has no pharmaceutical or operating experience, and his limited public company board experience is less than five months on the board of Norilsk Nickel, a Russian mining company. None of Icahn's four nominees have been on the board of any company when it has received a New Chemical Entity (NCE) or Biological License Application (BLA) approval.

None of Icahn's four nominees have been on the board of any company when it has received a New Chemical Entity (NCE) or Biological License Application (BLA) approval. Late last week, Icahn nominee Alex Denner made generic assertions about applying return on investment rigor and promised to focus on medicines prescribed by primary-care physicians and seek ways to reduce spending.* While these superficial sound bites may get media attention, they do not constitute a real strategy and underscore Denner's apparent lack of understanding of Forest's business. It is telling that Denner, who purports to have experience qualifying him to be a director, would make such uninformed assertions. Anyone who had taken the time to study our business would know that the core of Forest's marketing strategy has always been focused on primary care and the few non-primary care products Forest does have are highly profitable because they have lower marketing costs. In addition, we believe our shareholders and analysts understand that cutting spending while launching five new products is a recipe for failure. ««««« We also are pleased to announce that we recently reached an agreement with plaintiffs who were seeking to enjoin Forest's Annual Meeting from proceeding as planned. In connection with this agreement, Forest today is filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission and is posting to its website (www.FRX2011annualmeetinQ.com) a copy of the complaint along with certain additional information. We are very pleased to have resolved this aspect of the matter so quickly. TIME IS SHORT SHOW YOUR SUPPORT FOR FOREST'S NOMINEES VOTE THE WHITE PROXY CARD BY TELEPHONE OR INTERNET TODAY! Support your Board by voting the WHITE proxy card by telephone or internet TODAY. Solomon, et al., Index No. 652154/2011. The complaint, which is attached hereto as Annex A, names as defendants Howard Solomon, Nesli Basgoz, William J. Candee III, George S. Cohan, Dan L. Goldwasser, Kenneth E. Goodman, Lawrence S. Olanoff, Lester B. Salans, and Peter J. Zimetbaum, as well as the Company as a nominal defendant. The complaint's factual allegations concern Forest's decision to support its CEO, Howard Solomon, in connection with a potential exclusion action that was considered by the Office of the Inspector General for the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS-OIG) (consideration of which was subsequently dropped by the HHS-OIG on August 5, 2011); the 10-person slate proposed for election at the annual meeting and actions related thereto; and the Company's director and executive compensation programs. The complaint alleges that Forest's directors breached their fiduciary duties to the Company and its shareholders in connection with these actions and related proxy statement disclosures. In connection with these claims, the complaint sought both monetary damages and an order enjoining the August 18, 2011 annual meeting pending correction of the alleged disclosure deficiencies. On August 4, 2011, the Court granted plaintiff's application for an order to show cause why the Court should not preliminarily enjoin Forest's annual meeting and set a hearing for August 9, 2011. On August 5, 2011, however, the parties reached an agreement by which Forest, partially in response to the filing of the Action, agreed to make certain additional disclosures related to the subject matter of plaintiff's action and, in exchange, the plaintiff agreed to withdraw its request for preliminary injunctive relief, which it did by letter to the Court on August 8, 2011. Although the plaintiff no longer seeks to enjoin the annual meeting, the claims remain pending. The defendants believe the case is without merit and intend to defend themselves vigorously.

Supplemental Disclosure re: Recommendation that Shareholders Vote the WHITE Proxy Card For All Ten Forest Nominees

From June 13, 2011 through July 15, 2011, the Forest board undertook an in-depth process to consider whether to recommend new candidates for the Forest board, culminating with the unanimous decision of the board, taken at its meeting of July 15, to expand the board to ten members and propose three new directors (in addition to seven current directors) to Forest stockholders. This deliberative process included multiple meetings of the full Board, separate meetings of the Nominating and Governance Committee, consideration of over 40 possible director candidates and meetings and interviews with selected candidates, with input and advice from Heidrick & Struggles, a leading executive search and recruiting firm, and other advisors.
