On July 29, 2015, EXOR S.p.A. (“EXOR”) sent the following letter to the preferred shareholders of PartnerRe Ltd.:
July 28, 2015

PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders,

As the Special General Meeting (SGM) on August 7th quickly approaches, we wanted to inform you about some important recent endorsements of EXOR superior offer for PartnerRe shareholders.

On July 24, 25 and 28, three of the leading global independent governance analysis and proxy voting advisors, Institutional Shareholder Services Inc. (ISS), Glass Lewis & Co., and Proxy Mosaic, LLC issued recommendations advising PartnerRe shareholders to vote AGAINST the AXIS transaction. In particular, Glass Lewis and Proxy Mosaic have issued specific recommendations to PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders to vote AGAINST the AXIS transaction.

Glass Lewis makes the following observations to PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders:

“While PartnerRe and AXIS claim to have matched EXOR's exchange offer, in our view, EXOR's proposal remains superior due to its lack of conditionality and the commitments Exor has made beyond those from PartnerRe/Axis.”

“For preferred shareholders, Exor's commitment to deliver the full economic value of the dividend rate increase at closing, in the absence of an IRS ruling otherwise blessing the rate increase for the next five years, as well as its limitation on capital distributions, continue to meaningfully differentiate Exor's exchange offer as compared to the "matching" exchange offer under the [AXIS] proposed merger.”

“We believe other relevant factors for preferred shareholders’ consideration, including expected ratings on debt and preferred shares and resulting leverage post-transaction, are relatively equal, while the lack of execution and integration risks argue in favor of EXOR’s offer, as compared to the proposed merger with AXIS.”

And Proxy Mosaic notes the following consideration for PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders:

“Ultimately, preferred shareholders should ask themselves the following question: Would you rather hold a security within the capital structure of a disciplined holding company, or a security within an amalgamated reinsurance company that 1) has committed itself to extensive capital distribution plans for common shareholders that could put your dividend at-risk, and 2) is still captive to the kind of earnings volatility that is inherent in the insurance industry, even with the benefit of “scale” and in a benign catastrophe environment? From that perspective, in our view, the AXIS proposal actually presents more risk to preferred shareholders than EXOR’s.”

These recommendations were issued notwithstanding PartnerRe’s unfounded concerns about tax uncertainty and burdensome reporting requirements of the EXOR’s enhanced offer for preferred shareholders.

Under current U.S. law, in no event will PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders own securities treated by the Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”) as part of a “listed transaction” or “prohibited tax shelter” involving “fast-pay stock” and there will be no associated tax uncertainty or burdensome reporting requirements as a consequence of the superior EXOR transaction.

As per the Glass Lewis and Proxy Mosaic recommendations, PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders should protect the value of their investment TODAY. EXOR urges PartnerRe Preferred Shareholders to vote the enclosed GOLD proxy card today AGAINST all three proposals related to the inferior amalgamation agreement with AXIS. This is a critical step to enable PartnerRe to accept EXOR’s superior offer, delivering Preferred Shareholders with a conservative credit profile, a higher dividend, and significantly enhanced terms.

PartnerRe shareholders seeking clarity on the EXOR offer can contact EXOR’s proxy solicitor, Okapi Partners LLC, at info@okapipartners.com or toll free at (877) 796-5274 (banks and brokerage firms should call +1 (212) 297-0720).
